VIRGIL.

OF Lieutenant Governor Hutchinson's history, after a thousand criticisms and penevrycks, the publick will judge for themselves. I shall therefore leave its fate to be decided by that inackorable tribunal from whence there is no appeal. Those who Mr. J. charges with a neglect of duty, in not acknowledging their immense obligations to the honorable author, must answer it as well as they can to their own consciences. Tho' I must confess I never once imagined there had been such a slackness and remissness in the great duty of applauding his Honor's labors, nor that his book had met with a luke-warm, much less a cold reception in the world, till Mr. J. was pleased to proclaim it. If England be insensible to "merit of its own growth," I never shall believe my country capable of so black ingratitude. Where English merit retires to when "hiss'd off the British stage," is not easy to conceive; certain it is however, that little is exported thence to the colonies in the shape of a long J. It seems to me that Mr. J. if possible makes a worse figure as a critic than a politician. I remember a singular compliment paid him by a favorite of his on his extraordinary exhibitions two or three winters since. "Sir," says his friend, "tis quite in vain to deny it, indeed it must be you, for all the town agrees no other man in America besides is capable of writing such pieces!" But whence this wonderful change in the person and circumstances of Mr. J.? He was then a gay young gentleman of Springfield a meer buck and a blood, diverting himself at the expense of his parson and of all good manners. Now we find him an old gray headed sinner, at his wit's end, and if we may believe him at the world's end too, out of the reach of his Honor's favor and acquaintance. The former is readily assented to, but the latter I believe not a word of, 'tis all a farce and a blud. He is not at present in so exalted or remote a station of life as to be out of the reach of his Honor's good offices, tho' I suspect there are thousands and tens of thousands of the freeholders of this province, who most sincerely wish that may soon be his case.

He has given Mr. Hutchinson credit for one thing which I dare say his Honor will never openly avow, or privately thank him for.

"I cannot (says he) but acknowledge, that this gentleman, in his chapter upon church affairs, has set me right in a mistake I was under conceiving the judicatories of the Independent or Congregational Church. I had always understood, that all controversies of an ecclesiastical kind, were decided finally before a convention or council of neighbouring ministers. And I know of many others that believe the same. But by him I find, that altho' such matters, in the first instance, are heard there, if they are of moment, they may, in the last resort, be brought before the assembly, where the crown has a representative. If this be the case, I cannot see why this mode of church government is not as compatible with monarchy, as that of the Church of Scotland."

This is clearly to make the civil legislative authority the judicatory, for the final decision here of all ecclesiastical affairs, between those whose purses are not long enough, nor friends strong enough to support an appeal to Great-Britain. The parliament have indeed declared the King or Queen for the time being head of the church of England. But there is no act of parliament from Magna Charta to this day, that makes man, woman or child, the head of the churches of Christ, within this province. Nor was it ever declared, that the church of Christ had seven heads and ten horns, as it might have been. If besides the true head declared in the new testament, any given number of others might be created by act of parliament. If the parliament should declare itself head of Christ's church, as Mr. J. has declared the general assembly, the head of the church on earth would be truly and literally like Hobbes Leviathan, a thousand heads consolidated in one body. I believe all intelligent congregationalists hold that Christ is the sole head of, and sole King in his own kingdom. Tho' I believe Dr. Hoadly was the first bishop after the accession of the Stuarts, who was so hardy as to rebroach that heresy, as old as Christ and his apostles, and for this he had like to have been ruined. Few congregationalists will ever recognize more than one head of the church of Christ, fewer still will ever admit that it may be many headed. But according to the commentaries of the learned Mr. J. his Majesty's representative, i. e. the governor of the province, with the two houses of assembly, are a court of appeal, from the determinations of particular churches, and from the decisions of ecclesiastical councils and synods. If so, his Majesty in his most honourable privy council, must have a negative, for such on all acts and proceedings of assembly, is expressly reserved to him and his royal successors by our charter. This is most excellent use, cut out of his honor's doctrine, if not out of the whole cloth; for there is not the least colour of such a jurisdiction to be found within the letter or spirit of the Royal Charter. Fine rapid progress thro' the rights, liberties and privileges of the provinces, sacred and civil, is like to be made during a Phaenonic Platonic administration of 5 or 6 years in one of them. Trials by their peers: the castle of the domicile: the cream of their commerce: the inherent rights of taxing themselves, and making their own laws! are all swept away by new-fangled writs of assilance, memorials, blind-folded depositions, and scandalous perjuries transmitted, productive of hoovering acts and guarda lacosta's, sugar acts, Stamp Acts, a standing army in a time of profound peace, and attempts to quarter soldiers on private families! And now to crown all with his smattering of canon, civil & common law, music, and architecture, a few grains of chicanery and low cunning, without three scruples of common sense, conscience, honor or honesty, Mr. J. would bring all church affairs to the ultimate examen of a prima minister or arch prelate! Few governors have yet been found, who in spirituals or temporals dared decide against the known opinion of those who may not only reverse their decrees, but turn them adrift into the bargain. Behold my countrymen the chains ready for those who are weak or wicked enough to wear them! Be virtuous, be wise, and you will ever be valiant and free!

Should these independent churches ever become really dependent on a governor, which God forbid, I have no kind of doubt but Mr. J. after such a revolution, would like them much better than the Kirk of Scotland. And should he survive such a catastrophe, and obtain a commission as governor here, I presume some such form as this might suit him as well as any.

"To our trusty, well-beloved and right valourous Sir Jiggumbob Jingle, knight of the most noble order of the Tartar, and golden fleece, we appoint you captain general of our province of M. B. commander in chief of fort-gulliver, and of all other our castles, cathedrals, councils, synods and parish-church meetings, within our said territory, and vice admiral of the same, by sea and by land; with full power to seize and confiscate all by law or otherwise, confiscable on shore, on the ocean, or in the bays, rivers, ports, creeks, churches or ponds in said province, and the same to apply to your own use."

I shall conclude with a passage from Dr. MATHER. "The charters of New-England being taken away, there was a commission imposed upon the colonies with a view to a more reasonable a commission to be given to the colonies. A commission by which the governor, or the four more, none of whom were chosen by the King, had power to make what laws they thought proper, and to apply to their own honors upon the same; and he who had power to send the bell to the land more than ten thousand miles out of his jurisdiction. That excellent attorney-general Sir William Jones, when it was proposed that the plantations might be governed without assemblies, told the King (Jan. 11) That he could not grant a commission to levy money on his subjects there, without their consent by an assembly, than they could discharge themselves from their allegiance to the British crown. So Sir J. Vane tho't it his duty to refuse a commission, as a thing that was against the essence of it." Life of Sir W.

ALGERNON

From the Providence Gazette Extraordinary.

The following is said to be a copy of the RESOLUTIONS of the CONGRESS held at NEW-YORK.

Saturday, October 19, 1765. A. M.

I. RESOLVED, That his Majesty's subjects in these colonies, owe the same allegiance to the crown of Great-Britain, that is owing from his subjects born within the realm, and all due subordination to that august body the Parliament.

II. THAT his Majesty's liege subjects in these colonies, are intitled to all the inherent rights and liberties of his natural born subjects, within the kingdom of Great-Britain.

III. THAT it is inseparably essential to the freedom of a people, and the undoubted right of Englishmen, that no tax be imposed on them, but with their own consent, given personally, or by their representatives.

IV. THAT the people of these colonies are not, and from their local circumstances, cannot be represented in the house of commons in Great-Britain.

V. THAT the only representatives of the people of these colonies, are persons chosen therein, by themselves, and that no taxes ever have been or can be constitutionally imposed on them, but by their respective legislatures.

VI. THAT all supplies to the crown, being free gifts of the people, it is unreasonable, and inconsistent with the principles and spirit of the British constitution, for the people of Great-Britain to grant to his Majesty the property of the colonies.

VII. THAT trials by jury are the inherent and invaluable right of every British subject in these colonies.

VIII. THAT the late act of parliament, intitled, "An Act for granting certain Stamp Duties, and other duties, in the British Colonies and plantations in America, &c." by imposing taxes on the inhabitants of these colonies, and the said act and several other acts, by extending the jurisdiction of the courts of admiralty beyond its ancient limits, have a tendency to subvert the rights and liberties of the colonists.

IX. THAT the duties imposed by several late acts of parliament, from the peculiar circumstances of these colonies, will be extremely burthenome and grievous, and from the scarcity of specie, the payment of them absolutely impracticable.

X. THAT as the profits of the trade of these colonies, ultimately center in Great-Britain, to pay for the manufactures which they are obliged to take from thence, they eventually contribute very largely to all supplies granted there to the crown.

XI. THAT the restrictions imposed by several late acts of parliament, on the trade of these colonies, will render them unable to purchase the manufactures of Great-Britain.

XII. THAT the increase, prosperity, and happiness of these colonies depend on the full and free enjoyment of their rights and liberties, and an intercourse with Great-Britain, mutually advantageous and advantageous.

XIII. THAT it is the right of the British subjects in these colonies, to petition the King, or either house of parliament.

LASTLY. That it is the indispensable duty of these colonies to the best of their power, to the mother country and themselves, to endeavour by a loyal and dutiful address to his Majesty, and humble applications to both houses of parliament, to procure the repeal of the act for granting certain Stamp duties, of all clauses of any other act of parliament, whereby the jurisdiction of the said colony is extended, as aforesaid, and of other acts, the restriction of American commerce.

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.

Extract of several Letters from Barbados, Jan. 23.

"I informed the People of the Town with the Resolutions of the Philadelphians, and their Determination, not to lend any Vessels here soon, on Account of our submitting so tamely to the Stamp Act which occasioned Provisions to start surprizingly in two Days. I enquired of the proper Persons, if Vessels were liable to be seized that came without stamps, who told me there was not the least Danger, as they would be readily entered without—My Countrymen all seem uneasy now, and are sorry that they accepted of the Stamps; and I really believe, that if some of the leading Men would show an Example, they would soon put an End to them."

There are many other Letters from that Island to the same Purport with the above, the Writers of which lament bitterly the Consequences of the Stamp Law being introduced among them, as they are already drained of their Cash by it, having no Money to pay for any Thing else, the Duties of which, alone, it is supposed will amount to about 26,000 l. a Year.—In short, they seem in Despair about the Affair, every one blaming the other for his Folly and Simplicity, in accepting of the horrid Act, and thereby becoming Slaves; more especially, as they were one of the first English Settlements in America, and have a most excellent Charter.—And yet none of them have Courage enough to set it aside.

NEW-YORK, March 10.

Saturday, the first Inst, the Ship Ellis, from London, bound for Philadelphia, was cast away on Abiscoun Beech; and one Mr. Wilson (lately appointed Comptroller of the Custom-House at Albany) and one of the Seamen, were drowned. As soon as the Vessel struck, great Part of the Cargo was thrown overboard to lighten her, most of which drove ashore: The Ship, with Part of the Cargo, will be lost.

Upon a Supposition that the Cannon upon the Battery in this City were spiked by Order of Lieutenant Governor Colden, his Effigy was exhibited last Thursday, sitting upon a Piece of Ordnance, (properly mounted) with a Drill, constructed in such Manner as to be continually working; at his Back hung a Drum, as a Badge of his former Profession: On his Breast was fixed a Paper, on which were the following Lines,

I'm deceiv'd by the Devil, and left in the Lurch;

And am forc'd to do Penance, tho' not in the Church.

After it had appeared in the principal Streets of the City, attended by many Thousand Spectators, (altho' it rain'd great Part of the Time) it was carried to the Common, where a Fire was immediately made, and the whole consumed by 5 o'Clock in the Afternoon, amidst the Acclamations of the Multitude, who dispersed directly after.—The Affair was conducted with such Order and Decorum, that no Person sustained the least Damage.—N. B. The Public are desired to take Notice, that the Cannon still remain spiked; and it is expected that no further Host will be necessary.

Monday last came up Capt. Brisson from Holland, but last from Dover, in 8 Weeks: Thursday Week he spoke with a Schooner from Santa Croix for Salem, 12 Days out, the Master of which informed him, that one of our Men of War had turned Pirates in the West Indies.

March 13. An Excellent Treatise of Hemp Husbandry, by Edmund Quincy, Esq; suited for America; to be sold by Appointment of the Society of Arts, &c. by Thomas Jackson, in the Exchange, Price 2s.

We are favoured with the following Memorandum, from a Gentleman lately arrived from Charles Town, South Carolina.

The Sons of Liberty in Charles-Town, were come to a resolution, that no rice should be suffered to be sent from that port to Georgia, as the inhabitants of that province had tamely received the stamps. This resolution, if adhered to, will greatly distress them, as I am well assured there is at this time in that province (Georgia) not less than eighty sail, a great part of them chartered vessels, and now lying on high demurrage, without any thing to load them.

At a meeting of the Sons of Liberty, the night before I left Charles-Town, information was given that a schooner loaded with rice for Georgia had stolen down in the night, but had not got to sea, on which they summoned the owner and master, and obliged them to bring her up again and discharge it.

NEWPORT, March 10.

A Sloop from Antigua bound to Connecticut, put in here last Saturday, the Master of her reports, that eight Spanish Men of War, with five Thousand Land Forces, were arrived from Old Spain at Porto-Rico.

BOSTON, March 24.

We hear that the General Court which was adjourned to the 9th of April, will be prorogued to a further Day, if no Advices shall arrive from England within this Week, which will require their Meeting at that Time.

In the Snow Storm mentioned in our last, sundry Vessels, &c. at Portsmouth, were cast ashore, drove off to sea, and 2 or 3 sunk: A Wreck was seen towing in there, but as no Mast was standing, and the Vessel chiefly under Water, 'twas not known what it was. Several Trees, Boards of Barns, Fences, &c. were blown down.

On the 18th Instant, to the inexpressible Grief of her Father's Family, and greatly lamented by all her acquaintances, died at Barnstable, Miss Abigail Otis, youngest Daughter of the Hon. James Otis, Esq;—Her Funeral was conducted in Conformity to the laudible and patriotic Example shown by the Inhabitants of this Metropolis, and now almost universally followed thro' the Continent, by retrenching the late Extravagancies in Mourning Apparel.

On the 12th of January sail'd from this Port the Brig Betsey, William Davis, Master, bound to Holland, but on the 21st of the same Month they met with a most violent Storm, in which they were obliged to cut away her Masts, and leud before the Wind, but for want of Sail she broach'd too, and ship'd such a heavy Sea as wash'd away the Boat, Binnacle, and every Thing off the Deck, together with the Captain and two of the Hands, named George and William Robertson, who were unfortunately drowned; the Sea also carried away her Quarter Pieces, Rails &c. stove in her Dead Lights, broke all the Joiner's Work in the Cabin, and wash'd out some spare Sails and other Things which were there, and the Vessel lay for some Time a meer Wreck, having 6 Feet Water in her Hold. After the Wind abated, the Mate fixed up Jury-Masts as well as their distress'd situation would admit of, and stood away for the West Indies in order to refit, and happily arrived at Antigua in 20 Days after, 'tho' under the Disadvantage of having only a broken Compass, and no Quadrant on board, the Captain's being broke and the Mate's lost.

From Cape-Ann we hear the Storm drove several Vessels ashore, some of them outward bound Fishing Schooners, and damaged their Salt and Stores; but they got off again.

Captain Jarvis, who was blown off this Coast last Winter, arrived here on Saturday last.

Last Saturday Night 7-night, a Store at Cape-Ann, with a Sail-Loft, were consumed by Fire, with between 20 and 30 Pieces of Duck, partly made up, sundry Suits of old Sails, and sundry other Articles.

We hear from Newport, That the Hon. Metcalf Bowler, and Henry Ward, Esqrs; at the late Session of the General Court there, received the Thanks of both Houses, for the faithful and judicious Discharge of their Duty, as Commissioners from that Colony, assisting at the late general Congress at New-York.

Extract of a Letter from HALIFAX.

"I MUST not omit to tell you, that Yesterday I sail'd our Friend ——— for Barbadoes, an Island where they, like Halifax, receive Stamps; by his going we lose a good Member of our Anti Stamp Club, which furnishes Conversation for the G——r, Lord C——, Doctor S——, Mr. Secretary, &c. who think it very extraordinary that we should set up ourselves, as they term it, against government, but we do it to let them see that there is still a few even in Halifax who have not bow'd the Knee to Bael."
